France Worries, Wisely

THIS INTELLIGENT COUNTRY, a last discoverer that it has a crime wave.
Yesterday Chicago police, heavily armed with machine guns and the proper gas bombs, were reported to have dashed into southern Wisconsin from Illinois, hoping to catch a band of kidnappers. The United States gave the Chicago men authority to cross from one state to another.

A trap had been laid Tuesday night for kidnappers, with a package containing $500. The money was taken to the rendezvous by two policemen in a taxicab. The kidnappers came, asked for the money and escaped, although there were 300 police waiting to catch them, with an airplane overhead to tell which way they went.
You may wonder why a sub-machine gun in the hands of a policeman failed to work. Mayor Kelly of Chicago may also wonder.

One trouble with this country is that it has too much law, making it not enough ACTION. A British person named Breckerton makes this observation: "Not the number or excellence of a country's laws, but the extent to which they are obeyed is the real test of a civilization. In the last ten years, the United States has passed over five hundred thousand legislative enactments. In the same period, Great Britain passed one hundred and thirty. At the same time, fifty murders are committed in the United States for every one committed in Great Britain."
The value of laws doesn't depend so much on "the extent to which they are obeyed" as on the extent to which they are ENFORCED. Mussolini in Italy has proved that, as Diaz did in Mexico before Mussolini.

Our people, unfortunately, have little respect for laws that do not please them, as shown in prohibition. And even our officials do not enforce laws, while the law-breakers are able to pay for immunity.
Mr. Medalla, United States prosecutor, tells Senator Copeland, investigating racket, that he can have four important political leaders in New York that he can control by gangsterism and work in co-operation with them. Racketeers, according to Mr. Medalla, contribute to the political parties. The federal government ought to ask Mr. Medalla about his "four leaders."

Yesterday stocks "argued," and "Big Steel" was off, because important steel men lie some other important industrialists suspect that it means putting organizing labor in control of everything. Steel, automobile and other industries will not agree to that.

Wheat and other grain were down, and from that evil good came. The government, having dropped off the gold band, may be compelled to do something else, and make dollars a little more plentiful. It would be a mistake to ignore the dollar officially, and not anything about distributing more money. Three hundred and sixty million surplus bushels of wheat would be offered, perhaps, by three or four billion extra nice new dollars. The remedy for cheap wheat is more money.

Always logical, cautious, careful, is the intelligent French nation. Possessing more than twice as many fighting airplanes as any other nation in the world, it could, with great ease, wipe out any dozen cities within a thousand miles of Paris on any afternoon. Nevertheless, it worries about its own cities, open to air attack, by Mr. Hitler or anyone else, and worries especially about Metz, an important fortress in Alsace-Lorraine.

That town, recently taken back from the Germans, would be one of the first that Mr. Hitler would like to gather in. The Germans had once been taken into Bismarck city in the wax of 1870, and there, fore called by the Frenchmen La Pucelle.

Today Metz's great walls and bulwarks mean nothing. The French know that the safety of cities depends on what anti-aircraft guns can do from the ground, and they are experimenting.

The question about Metz, now, is not whether some future business would give up the fort in disgrace, to be sentenced to degradation and death, as Mar-

NRA Agrees to Open Shop Auto Pact

SEEK TO GAIN LABOR NURSE MURDER

LABORABLE CODE GIVES EMPLOYERS OPEN SHOP

Marks First Change in Collective Bargaining Clause

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—An agreement between the automobile industry and the NRA on the "open shop" provision of the industry's code was reached today with spokesmen for the manufacturers accepting a modification proposed by Robert W. Lee, deputy administrator.

The change, which officials indicated represented the views of H. H. Johnson, Recovery administrator, was the first modification of the "collective bargaining" labor clause of the industrial act that has been written in co-operation with the NRA.

The law as written provided for organization and collective bargaining of employees, with no restraint upon the type of representation they might select. The additional modifying provision would continue the open shop policy under which the selection, retention and advancement of employees will be on the basis of individual merit without regard to their affiliation or non-affiliation with any labor or other organization.

The original code, presented by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, with Henry Ford not yet indicating adherence, "in accordance with the foregoing provisions, employers propose to continue the open shop policy heretofore followed and under which unusually satisfactory and harmonious relations with employees have been maintained. The selection, retention and advancement of employees will be on the basis of individual merit without regard to their affiliation or non-affiliation with any labor or other organization."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said yesterday he would oppose the original provision. Whether the alteration would affect his views could not be immediately ascertained.

29 Million Added to Payroll

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP)—Secretary Perkins announced today that approximately 400,000 factory workers returned in jobs in July and that the purchasing power of all workers in manufacturing plants had increased about $20,000,000 in weekly wages in July compared with March.

Hutton Denies New Friend Is 'Sweetie'

Seen in a smart night club here with Mrs. Kitty Chapman, a vicious brunette divorcee, Dave Hutton, who is suing Alvin Karpis for divorce, was asked today if he had a new sweetie.

"New sweetie? I haven't any new sweetie. I hardly go anywhere. I'm not taking any chances. You may see me still a married man," said Hutton.

"Oh, Mrs. Chapman? I only met her once. A minister at the theater here where I'm singing introduced me. Why, I didn't even know her first name until just now."

Mrs. Chapman said: "I don't care. It's a nice boy, but I don't care to discuss our friendship, so please say nothing about it."

Pope Blesses U. S. Navy: Sees Cadets

Vatican City, Aug. 17 (AP)—A blessing on the United States Navy was imparted today by Pope Pius XI after he had received in audience eight cadets from the schoolship Annapolis.

They came from Naples where the Annapolis is under command of John Taylor, who was in port. The Pope told the cadets he was happy they were in port because they would have a better idea of the greatness of the Creator and would feel themselves closer to Him.

MacDonald Returns for London Parley

London, Aug. 17 (AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald interrupted his vacation at Looe, Devonshire, today to come to Downing Street for conferences with government leaders.

Newly Opened Federal Offices Here Draw Many Applicants

Hundreds of home owners applied for assistance today at the newly opened offices of the Home Owners Loan Corp., government relief agency.

Large numbers were in line with applications at some of the Greater Boston offices. At others the groups were surprisingly small.

Cambridge, Malden and Roslindale reported the largest groups of about 15 Greater Boston stations. These three offices also serve Belmont, Forest Hills, Hyde Park, Melrose and Medford.

Among early applicants at the Boston central office, 25 Devonshire st., was a Gold Star mother, Mrs. Agnes Ferraro of 343 Shawmut ave., South End, whose husband has been blind for 30 years and whose mother, Gertrude, is out of work. Her son lost his life in the World War.

No applications will be granted for several days, as there is considerable waiting to be before relief can be arranged.

The fact that a home owner is seriously "up against it" does not mean he is in a bad state of mind, but there are other important factors.

The government will appraise the property of those applying. The person or bank holding the mortgage must be able to make payments on a reduced basis.

Conditions at the various offices were reported as follows: Boston central—No rush of applicants. Malden—About 300 awaiting the opening. Cambridge—Crowded packed offices of applicants. Roslindale—About 150 in first two hours. Chelsea—Only a handful when doors opened.

POLICE HUNT FOR MEN IN H. DEATH

Reports State Crime Was Committed in Motor Car

By ARTHUR J. QUINN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Roxeter, N. H., Aug. 17—Massachusetts and New Hampshire police today concentrated in a search for what they believe was the murder car in which Mrs. Louise Bostell Palmer, comely Exeter nurse, met her death five weeks ago.

It is in this case the police believe that the nurse was slain. The reason for the murder is unknown, but from evidence already uncovered, it is believed, at least four men were directly concerned in the slaying.

It is from this murder car, containing four men, that the authorities believe the body of the nurse was thrown, into the abutment stream along Cock Hill road, Hampton Falls, where it was found by highway forkers Monday.

Police believe that the slain nurse was a passenger in an automobile the night she was last seen 16 days ago. This followed a party, they said.

Capt. J. W. Hunter of Hampton Falls police hurried here this afternoon with the identity of the four men. Little information was gleaned from the daughter of the murdered.

STOCK LEADERS UP 7 POINTS

New York, Aug. 17—Important shares in Wall st. rallied one to about 7 points today with trading for a time taking on the buoyancy typical of a few weeks ago. The uptick was aided by rallies in commodities, including grain and cotton.

After about 20 minutes of extreme activity, the pace relaxed, but creeping gains continued. Maximum gains for leading shares, ranging from 3 1/2 to about 7 1/2 included: J. I. Case, Allied Chemical, National Dairy, American Commercial, Alcolac, United Fruit, Alcolac, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse and Celanese. Others up 1 1/2 to 3 1/2 included: Bess, Rockwell, First National, Seaboard, Great Northern, Bankers' Ward, Commercial, Solvents, United States Pacific, Deere and du Pont.

TWO BIDS FOR JESSIE'S ACT, $1000 WEEK HIGHEST

Undertaker Conway Puts Block on Fight for Insurance

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Pembury, Aug. 17—"Big business" kept Jessie Conaway in a whirl of activity today as she opened battle for her dead husband's $5000 insurance and received under new commercial offers, one from Billy Duffy, manager of Primo Carner, heavyweight champion boxer.

$1500 Attachment Made by Undertaker
A report from New York that Jess already had signed a $5000 contract at $1000 a week to go on the stage was denied by William F. O'Brien, her junior counsel, although O'Brien admitted the offer and admitted also that "some contract" might be signed before tomorrow.

Announcement that she had already signed a night club contract in New York, was that of a post as night club hostess on Broadway and carried with it a comfortable salary.

Duffy, who was in Salem and Pembury yesterday, intends to open his night club next week. Other offers understood to have been made include one from a New York variety house for a similar run at $500 a week.

Jessie's fight for payment of two insurance policies, totalling $5000, which were in force when Bill Conaway died mysteriously, was understood to be handicapped somewhat today by a $1500 attachment placed against his policies by Leonard Conway, Pembury undertaker.

It is understood that Conway, in contrast over being brought into the Conaway trial testimony as a man who had loaned Jessie money after her husband died refused to lift the $1500 attachment. It is understood that the offer of Billy Duffy, noted above as a night club contract in New York, was that of a post as night club hostess on Broadway and carried with it a comfortable salary.

THE EAGLE WING CLIPPED BY U. S. AND STATE OFFICIALS

FEES FOR USE OF BLUE EAGLE FORBIDDEN

Cambridge Man Asked to Pay for Public Works Job

Federal and state authorities act today to crush racketeers and to punish manufacturers, business men and contractors by taking advantage of the National Recovery program.

National Recovery Administration headquarters at Washington revealed that no sanction had been imposed at Washington to charge unsuspicious employers for the privilege of having Blue Eagle insignia printed.

The government permits the printing of Blue Eagles, in addition to the single one given each employer complying with the law. There is no charge for this privilege. Penalties must be obtained from NRA authorities.

It was revealed that the apportionment of Blue Eagles had been made to every section of the country, soliciting fees for this privilege.

Edwin S. Smith, Massachusetts commissioner of labor and industry, disclosed that Cambridge contractors had been visited by a man offering to obtain public works contracts for them.

He demanded three references and said the charge would be a certain amount for investigating each reference.

Full information of all such attempts to extract money in connection with the National Recovery program should be sent immediately to the authorities, either state or federal.

BANKS SIGN CODE
The Boston recovery committee's check of signs of the city has already resulted in the signing of almost 100 per cent of the city banks under the National Recovery Agreement. It was announced today.

Thomas P. Reel, in the first report made to the recovery committee on the canvass, said that 40 banks and their affiliates in the city, executive of co-operative banks have signed the code. He said two others were expected to sign this week, after minor difficulties had been adjusted.

Mine Union Held in Coin Plot
Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 17.—Rinaldo Cappelloni, president of Pennsylvania Mineworkers of Pennsylvania, an insurgent group, was held in $5000 bail for the next term of federal court today on a charge of conspiring and passing a $10 counterfeit federal note.

Revised Oil Code Up to Leaders

Washington, Aug. 17 (INS)—A code of fair competition for the nation's oil industry, revised in conference with President Roosevelt, will be presented to 24 leaders of the industry late today.

After calling the oil industry committee into his office shortly before noon, Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator, explained revised copies of the oil code were not ready for distribution and adjourned the conference until later.

The touching touches on the code, prepared by the NRA itself, resulted of the split in the oil industry over the price and production control made at a conference at the White House, President Roosevelt, Johnson and Secretary of the Interior, Ickes, were present.

Johnson said he was confident the code as approved by the President would be acceptable to the oil industry.

Oil men expected to be informed that the President had approved a modified minimum price and production control plan designed to bring elements of the oil industry together.

This action raised the controversial tariff issue for the first time.

Designation of Secretary Ickes as administrator for the oil industry was made.

With Ickes, as executive and advisor, it was expected, would be James A. Moffat, recently named as vice-president of Standard Oil of New Jersey, development among some independent and American Petroleum Institute associates as well, favors Ickes as administrator.

Mrs. Roosevelt Urges 'Shoppers' Code'
Washington, Aug. 16.—An unwritten "shopper's code" for women, under which the housewife would act as a policeman to guard against excessive prices in these recovery days, was the suggestion today of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

She contended prices must go up but said the woman shoppers duty is to guard herself against the victimized, and to report unreasonable advances in prices.

Housewives should carry packages wherever possible, Mrs. Roosevelt said, and should examine the price of having numerous articles sent home on approval, and later returned. This would reduce the cost of business operation and help to keep prices down.

Woman Held for Killing of 3 Men
Grundy, Va., Aug. 17 (AP)—Mildred Roberts, 35, of Lodi, W. Va., was held here today on a charge of slaying three men, who bodies were found in an automobile in Buchanan County yesterday. She readily admitted she was in the automobile, but said she left before the tragedy.

N. Y. STRIKERS MOB POLICE AS TRUCE LOOMS

Whalen Rushes Arbitration; 60,000 March on Factories

New York, Aug. 17 (INS)—Police battled roving pickets in midtown Manhattan today and arrested 15, shattering the orderly ranks of 60,000 strikers in the dress industry, at Grover A. Whalen, city NRA chairman, pressed for an immediate truce.

The most spectacular conflict was on the 10th floor of the offices of Baum, Kravatz & Baum Co., where a gang of 40 pickets dragged screaming girl operators from their machines.

The pickets had broken in the plant door and shut off the power before a police detail cornered nine, two of them women.

Conn. Strikers Get Warning to Join NRA
New Haven, Conn., Aug. 17 (AP)—John J. Egan, secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, today told striking garment workers that "if the NRA fails, President Roosevelt will be through, and a dictatorship may follow."

"There will be no more President," Egan said. "Dictatorship may follow. Therefore it is up to you to organize for the benefit of yourselves."

The statement was made at a mass meeting attended by men and women who walked out of garment shops in New Haven yesterday in protest against low wages and long hours. The strike was called by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. There were 26 establishments closed.

Gandhi's Death Fast Follows Press Ban

Simla, India, Aug. 17 (AP)—The Government issued a formal statement today setting forth the various of the conflict with Mahatma Gandhi.

On being imprisoned at the beginning of August, the communique said, Gandhi requested permission to do unobtrusive work in his visitors freely and receive and send correspondence.

Yesterday, the communique said, the Mahatma was informed that strictly for his anti-unobtrusiveness work, the following facilities had been granted him.

First he might receive newspapers and periodicals, but he was not allowed interviews for publication.

Second, he was not to see more than two visitors daily.

Third, he might send instructions and contributions to the editor of the Harlan Journal twice weekly and a limited number of letters to other newspapers.

Fourth, he might have at his disposal a convict typist and books and newspapers needed for his Harlan work.

The communique concluded with the statement: "The Government has decided that Mr. Gandhi is disqualified with this decision and has started a fast."

TEAR GAS BOMB EXPLODES IN CHELSEA PUBLIC LIBRARY ROOM

WORKERS FLEE AS FUMES FILL BUILDING

Pen-Shaped Object Is Found in Handbag Left on Desk

When William Morgan, assistant custodian in the Chelsea Public Library building in Broadway, Chelsea, picked up a woman's handbag to examine its contents today in a basement room of the building, he drove himself and four librarians into the street—fleeing from a tear gas explosion.

Some months ago the handbag was left in the library and since has been unclaimed. Prior to turning it over to authorities for disposal as unclaimed, Morgan started today to make an inventory of the contents and picked up a fountain pen-shaped object.

He unscrewed the cap and then there was a loud report and gas developed him. Dropping the bag and weeping copiously, Morgan found his way out to the fresh air. Meanwhile the gas seeped up through the hallway into the library where four women attendants, suddenly realizing that there were better locations for their minty eyes and fled to the street.

Police Sgt. Walter Barden was called to the building and ventilated it by opening windows, but not before he, too, had done a bit of weeping.

He then took charge of the pen, which is an instrument capable of discharging either a gas shell or a 20-cal. bullet.

40-HOUR WEEK PAY ONLY $9

Allabrook, Aug. 17 (AP)—Congressman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., today wrote to President Roosevelt asking "justice" for employees of the Newport, R. I., torpedo station many of whom lived in Fall River.

Employees recently were put on a 40-hour week and will suffer a 16 to 23 per cent reduction in pay. A few months ago their pay was cut 15 per cent. Under the present schedule Martin said some laborers were receiving $9 for a 40-hour week.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—The Chicago Herald and Examiner is privileged today to reveal the first details of a huge income tax settlement by Mayor Edward J. Kelly with the United States Government.

The settlement was made in May, 1932. He paid the government between $100,000 and $130,000. Of the total $100,000 represented the usual tax on the income involved in the settlement; $30,000 represented a penalty of 50 per cent.

The law provides a 50 per cent penalty only in cases of default.

The income involved in the settlement was for the years 1928, 1927 and 1926. Mayor Kelly had made returns for those three years and had paid the usual tax on the "back" taxes.

The settlement involved a tax on income which had not been reported.

When the mayor was sought to give him the opportunity of stating his position on the matter, he declined to see reporters.

NEWTON MAKES THIRD TAX RATE CUT

Concord Cut Sets Figure at Lowest in 9 Years

For the third successive year, Newton today announced a reduction in its tax rate. The new rate, made public by the board of assessors through Acting Mayor Roy W. Collins, is $24.90, compared with $25 a year ago.

The latest promises to keep for Newton the distinction of having the lowest tax rate of any city in Massachusetts. Last year, the rate was cut from $26.00 to $25.00; and the year before from $27.20 to $26.00.

The reduction was made despite the fact that there is a net decrease of $1,959,960 in the valuation of the city's taxable real and personal property. This drop is due to a revaluation of the real estate.

It was offset in a large measure by the fact that the city has not borrowed any funds from the state on tax titles, and therefore is in good financial position.

Newton's total real estate valuation was announced as $163,388,800. Concord tax rate was set at $26.30 and the city of Boston at $26.50 and a reduction of 50 cents from last year.

The assessed valuation is $5,066,850, a slight decrease.

Advance estimates by the Lowell assessors indicate an increase of $3 in the tax rate there.

Lupe Velez Meets All Comers With Pistol

Hollywood, Aug. 17 (AP)—Lupe Velez, actress, is sleeping with a pistol under her pillow since kidnapping threats were made against her adopted daughter Joan Del Valle Velez.

Miss Velez said she had received three extortion notes threatening violence to the child. One demanded $25,000, the other two $10,000.

Her announcement she had sent adopted daughter to Mexico for safekeeping scarcely 24 hours old, Miss Velez applied one and all that's going to be a tough job from now on getting into the Velez home.

The following precautions against harm were listed:

THE GU—"I've learned to shoot pretty good, but I'm just a woman."

THREE ARMED GUARDS—"I'm frightened to death every time I go out."

HER JEWELS—"I've locked almost all of them up in a safety deposit vault."

She brandished her pistol as she spoke, reviving the cylinder.

"I'd like them to come in here some time. I'd show them."

Even the man is met with a gun when he comes to read the news.

Missing Brighton School Girl Found

Marion Clark, 15-year-old school girl of Brainerd rd., Brighton, missing from her home since last Friday, was picked up by police of the Brighton station today and will have her case disposed of in municipal court tomorrow.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Hilda Clark, reported the child missing to the police yesterday. It was believed she was with friends in Hingham, but today the Brighton police found her and placed her in custody, charging her with being a lullaborn child.

Concord Man Builds Boat to Cross Sea

Inspected at sea, Norman D. Keizer of Concord plans to cruise alone to Europe in a 30-foot motor boat of his own design and manufacture—built right under his own apple tree, in fact.

He revealed today he had made the boat without any plans on paper but is confident it will meet the assault of wind and waves with color flying.

Before taking off he may make a test trip on the Charles.

Vineyards Fail, 9 French Mayors Quit

Epernay, France, Aug. 17 (AP)—Nine of the 11 mayors in Epernay resigned today in protest against what they considered the government's failure to make vineyard lands prosperous.

MOTHER PLEAS FAIL TO FREE BOY SPEEDERS

Planes of their mothers failed to save two Charlestown boy speeders today in Charlestown court where they were held in connection with wild riding last Friday night, ending with serious injury of two policemen.

"I have got to think of the wives and children of these policemen," said Judge Charles Sullivan.

"Your boy (to the mother of the driver of the speeding car) drove this car into the police car, not knowing what injury it might cause. Donahue, one of the two injured officers, has three children and he may be permanently affected."

The boy driver, John Connolly, 17, of Charlestown, was held for the grand jury on two counts of assault with intent to murder as a result of the crash with the police car. Judge Sullivan found probable cause.

He was also held for the grand jury for larceny of an auto and was given a sentence of two years for driving to endanger and six months for leaving the scene of an accident. He appealed. Total bail was $500.

Joseph Gallagher, 17, of Medford was held in $100 for the grand jury for larceny and using a car without authority.

John Flynn, 16, of Medford was arraigned separately as a juvenile and sent to the Shirley industrial school.

The boys were charged at $5 miles an hour through Charlestown, Somerville, Medford and back to Charlestown. A second police car, containing Patrolmen Grant Donahue and James Malloy, joined the pursuit and was rammed.

CANDY LOTTERIES LURE PENNYMEN FROM CHILDREN

Lotteries have descended to the adolescent stage in Jamaica Plain and parents of penny-losing youngsters have begun to complain, it was learned today by the Boston Evening American.

While police have been running down operators of nigger pools, operators of candy lotteries, like girls and boys from three years old and up have been receiving a sturdy foundation as gamblers.

'CHANCES' OFFERED

In the past, children merely spent their pennies for candy, gum or knick-knacks, but now, in numerous stores, they are offered "chances."

These "chances" furnish the boys and girls an opportunity to lose their money outright, with no return for it except the occasional thrill, or in double its value in ready or some type of flimsy thing.

A number of small variety stores offer the "chances," although there are several forms of the gamble. One method is by the child drawing a small square of colored cardboard from a box. If he draws a designated color he wins. If he draws another color, he loses.

In another form, the child makes an outright purchase of a movie star's photograph. This is a cheap print, postcard size, and over the back is pasted a covering of paper, containing a "fortune" and a certain number of stars printed on one border.

The youngster tears off this paper and looks eagerly for the words "You Win" or the number of stars, the stars being stamped for the benefit of those kids who can't read.

For the lot who can read, the words "You Win" entitle him to a piece of candy. For the lot who can't read but who can count up to four stars, the four stars reveal that he has won.

One youngster spending eight pennies in eight plays pulled only one winner.

Bakery Drivers

Form Own Union

More than 200 drivers of bakery wagons organized today in a union that will benefit from the Local 281, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Helpers of the United States and Canada.

The group received the charter from P. Harry Jenkins, New England representative of the brotherhood, and will hold the first meeting next Wednesday night at Wells Memorial Building.

Tappan Back as Revere Prosecutor

Transfer in the Revere police department, announced by Mayor Andrew A. Cassara, bring Capt. William A. Tappan back as prosecutor of the department in Chief Justice's court, a position which he held until a few months ago. Three months ago Capt. Tappan was transferred from his night duty. The new order, however, returns him to his former post.

See Jupiter, Venus in Tryst Tonight

There will be a natural tryst for you in the western skies tonight in case the weather man's predictions happen to be wrong. Jupiter and Venus, two of the brightest stars now visible, seemingly will pass quite close to each other—if clouds do not shut off your view.

The weather man, however, expects it to be mostly cloudy with showers probably tonight. There will not be much change in temperature and gentle southeasterly winds will continue to prevail.

PEGGY JOYCE ILL, QUILTS JOB

Hollywood, Aug. 17 (AP).—Ronde Peggy Hopkins Joyce is out of the cast of "Tattletale" at Warner Bros.' "Broadway Through a Keyhole."

Miss Joyce, suffering from a recurrence of an illness she contracted in Chicago recently left the movie studio yesterday complaining of weakness. Lillian Tashman, style-editor on Hollywood Boulevard was engaged to play the part.

A physician ordered Miss Joyce to bed for a week. The picture, which she was working on from the scenario that caused Al Jolson to leave, will be a few weeks long. The columnist is trying to make the actor, him, $500,000 through the courts for having struck him.

2 Shot by Gunmen After Love Affair

Chicago, Aug. 17 (INS).—Put on the "spot" by intruding gunman Walter Gayle, 21, was killed and Edward Jarno, 21, was seriously wounded today in a shooting which police said grew out of a love affair.

Gayle and Jarno were sitting on the curb when an automobile pulled up and poured out a volley of pistol shots. Police took into custody James Kolanski, 30, who lives near the scene.

STATE POLICE TO PROBE OLD LIQUOR KILLINGS ON CAPE

As a result of their raid on El Casa Madrid, swank night club and gaming palace at Bass River, the state police may reopen investigations in a number of unsolved crimes attributed to liquor warfare on the Cape, it was indicated on Beacon Hill today.

First of the "old cases" that may be reopened is the slaying last December of Franklin Revere, alleged hijacker, on the outskirts of Hyannis.

NEEDHAM READY

Gen. Daniel Needham, head of the state troopers, today said that he would go to work on this case if requested to do so by Atty. Gen. Warner.

Warner today was spending the day of his vacation on the Cape. He is expected to make his decision on his return to his office in the State House tomorrow.

The police head was led to the Revere murder by John D. W. Rodfish, Hyannis business man, who charged that it was directly traceable to the social and financial interests that have turned Cape Cod from a land of vacation to a haven for booze runners.

BILLED IN RUM BATTLE

Revere, a former baseball star, was killed last December in what police described as an attempt by seven Otisville men to hijack a liquor cache.

Several arrests were made but those taken in were quickly exonerated and no indictments even were returned.

The statement of Rodfish indicated a concerted effort on the part of old-time Cape Codders to clean up conditions that are not to their liking there.

"Now that we have finally broken through the powerful wall with which these highly placed men surrounded their illegal enterprise, we mean to keep it up until we have cleaned them up entirely," was his statement.

OTHER PLACES OPEN

"For several years past—and this year is no different from any other—the respectable forces of the Cape have been forced to contend with these abominable conditions."

"There are other places running on the Cape in addition to that which the state police raided Sunday. They have got to go and we must keep the ball rolling, now that it has started."

TEAR GAS ROUTS 600 TROOPS

Camp Dix, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP)—Six hundred regular and reserve army officers today were certain they knew exactly what a war time gas attack is like.

The officers, attached to the 7th, 8th and 9th divisions of the Second Corps Area and here for their annual period of intensive military training, turned fugitive when a shifting wind swept a cloud of tear gas over them and brought in a abrupt and a chemical warfare demonstration.

A gas demonstration was being carried out, to illustrate modern methods of repelling attacks by gas shells. Fifty laboratory canisters were set off. The officers appeared looked on with keen interest. Then a sudden shift in the wind sent the cloud of pale yellow tear gas swirling down on them.

With one second, from second lieutenant to colonel, they turned and fled into a nearby wood, faces covered with tears.

Boston Elevated Earnings Improve

Boston Elevated Railway July revenue from railway operations before taxes and other deductions amounted to $350,174, compared to an increase before taxes of $221,775 for the same month of 1932, an increase of $128,400 in the net revenue this year. In July, receipts failed by $11,013 to meet full cost of service, which includes all charges, taxes and dividends, whereas in July, 1932, cost of service exceeded receipts by $42,748, an improvement of $31,735 in July, this year.

Officer Learns NRA Eagle Has Teeth

Commonwealth, Aug. 17—A policeman here can testify that a certain Blue Eagle does have teeth.

The Knights of Columbus had a picnic and the chief speaker was Maj. Gen. Paul R. Malone, commander of the Third Corps Area. His subject was the NRA.

In order to give the proper impression, a mountain eagle was secured and sprayed with a blue vegetable dye. During the ceremony, John J. Fryer, a member of the Cumberland police force, reached through the bars of the bird's cage. Immediately the eagle pounced on the policeman's hand and lacerated the index finger as severely that medical aid was required.

WHAM! PERKINS POST IS OFF

When Perkins Post No. 67, American Legion, South Boston, starts for anywhere, there is nothing quite as amusing or delectable about the group, whose mode is represented in their watchword, "Wham!"

This morning, the post members, en route to the American Legion convention in Holyoke, drove to the great door of the Boston American. They did not drive through the door, thereby showing their restraint. Instead, they howled their wild war, crashed their rail-road bell and played an obligation with police whistles.

"We stopped to inform the Boston American," said "Sheriff" John Quinn, spokesman for the quality, continued, "because, that we not only know where we're going but we're on our way. We have been informed that this meeting is to be the greatest, friendliest, and most moving ever devised for veterans of this here terrible war."

The Legionnaire's chorist of mirth features 72 distinct choruses. Among the items which attracted the eye are:

- "We Rise, but NEVER Fall."
- "Who Said We're Dry?"
- "We Still Have Our Sins, but Not Our Conscience."
- "Gas Makes Red Go-Giggles."
- "Water Makes Us Go-Giggles."
- "We Cover the Waterfront."
- "Why Girls Leave Home."
- "In the Name of Heaven, Look Where You're Going."

aha! Baxaine was. The question would be how long could Metz, or any of the other old-fashioned Parisians, say nothing of great cities, with their banks, palaces and stock exchanges, outlast bombardment from the air?

The English have already begun, by mimic air raids on London, that it is not possible to defend any city from air attack. The French are uncertain.

If they should find adequate means for city defense against aircraft, they should be obliged to them, inasmuch as we have a government that still refuses to take airplanes seriously.

A determined person is Mahatma Gandhi of India. The British know it, and fear him more than all the savage tribes of the northwest frontier. An idea, backed by sincerity, is dangerous.

Now Gandhi, who has kept his word always, tells England that if it does not make concessions, he, Gandhi, will starve himself to death. The British know he would keep his word, and they yield sufficiently to keep the brave, emaciated little creature living. What 240,000,000 Hindus might do, following Gandhi's protest-death, no one knows.

WOMAN LINKED IN POISONINGS

Alton, O., Aug. 17 (AP)—The woman behind the quadruple poison killing to which Mark H. Shank, Akron lawyer, confessed at Hot Springs, Ark., was sought for questioning here today while Shank's distraught wife sped to her husband's side.

In the confession Hot Springs officials said they obtained, Shank asserted a woman had demanded money from him under threat to use information confided to her by Alvin Karpis to cause criminal prosecution of the attorney.

Shank was quoted as saying the woman threatened to publish the information Karpis gave her. Colley, his wife and two of their three children fled to police. Hot Springs detectives said Shank admitted putting it in grapefruit he gave them at a picnic lunch.

Monkeys 'Bad Boys', Hate Medicine

Chicago, Aug. 17—There's kinship between monkeys and bad children, Dr. J. A. Campbell, zoo veterinarian at Toronto, Canada, believes. He told the veterinary association that of all animals, monkeys were the hardest to deal with in giving medicine.

"Often I have to put insulin in fruit and then pretend to eat it," said Dr. Campbell.

"As soon as I lay it down and turn my back the monkey will grab it and gulp it down before he has time to get the bad taste."

Lawrence, Aug. 17—With six girl playmates as palbearers, the funeral of Catherine Habib, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. deemy Habib of Auburn st., was held with services in St. Anthony's church.

The child died from burns suffered when she fell into a bonfire. Pius Haggan, a neighbor, was burned about the hands and arms when he attempted to beat out the flames.

Playmates acted as palbearers were: Mabel Debra, Maimie Tashars, Rose Touss, Alice Touss, Marie Bolls and Cecilia Hlatem.

Smokers Blamed for Newburyport Fire

Newburyport, Aug. 17—Boy smokers are blamed for a fire here yesterday that destroyed a barn owned by Benjamin Barbs, on Strong st., adjacent to the foundry buildings of Albert Russell & Sons Co.

Damage to the barn and automobiles stored in it is estimated at $4000. Four of the six machines stored in the building were rolled out by William White, 64 Middle st., and other men.

TIP BARES TRY AT SUICIDE

Mrs. Helen Barrett, 25, mother of two, took poison because of despondency today in her home on Hefferman st., Brighton, according to police, who rushed her to the hospital, where her name is on the danger list.

The two children were in bed in another room, when police, on answering a telephone call from a mysterious source, found Mrs. Barrett on the floor.

Dr. Vincent Thomas J. Mundy and John L. McManus took her to St. Elizabeth's Hospital for first aid and later she was transferred to City Hospital. Her husband was not at home.

Three Scientists Study Ancient Problem for Two and a Half Years and Define the Best and Worst Mother-in-Law

JOKES about mothers-in-law have been told since time immemorial. Peculiarly enough, science now finds that these jokes are actually based on fact.

It is the solemn conclusion of three University of Chicago scientists. They studied the mother-in-law problem by analyzing the experiences of 1,300 couples.

Their research has made it possible to describe the perfect as well as the five most dangerous types of mother-in-law, as told in a fine article in next Sunday's American Weekly. Be sure to read it!

RIVALS IN HOMESTRETCH

Her name today began to have a new and glamorous meaning for Miss Hope Cahill, of Lea et. Lynn.

The attractive, twenty-year-old brunette boasts proudly of the title Miss Greater Boston, which she was awarded last night in the elimination contests conducted at the carnival of Revere Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in Curtis Park, Revere.

And now her first emotion is one exactly expressed in the name given her by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Cahill.

All her hopes are centered on the dazzling world of American fashion and beauty in Atlantic City next month. Her emotion last night when she was chosen from among the contestants was one of modest surprise.

"I never expected to win with all those other pretty girls competing against me," she declared today.

Mrs. Isabelle Kujala, who turned with a sister of the victim, arrived in the city on vacation trip in Pennsylvania.

"I have no idea who killed my sister," she said. "I was away five weeks ago. I'm sure she planned to come home and expected her to call me that night."

After a week, however, I. Kujala, 40, of 1201 12th ave. and went to Haverrill and friends to inquire among friends she had known.

"Why she was murdered I cannot imagine," she never harmed anyone," she said.

Mrs. Kujala and her aunt, Mrs. Anna, early today viewed the shoes, which were found in the rooming by which others had established Mrs. Palmer as the murderer.

They agreed the articles were authentic, and they also said the material was of the same quality as the one worn by the victim at the time of the murder. Victim's head as a style of hairdressing used by Mrs. Palmer.

Medical reports sent to delay the trial until today, the coroner's detective still puzzled over the cause of the victim's death. The coroner's report has been made.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

The circumstances surrounding the jury's verdict of acquittal for Mrs. Costello could not help but remind me of an episode in a play by Augustus Thomas produced some 25 years ago. It was called "The Witching Hour" and had to do with murder and a murder trial, treated from the point of view of one who believed in men's telepathic hypnosis, and thought transference.

You probably remember the scene in which Jack Mason, as the gambler with psychic powers hypnotizes a man who is threatening to shoot him. "You can't hold that gun . . . you can't pull that trigger."

But the most daring scene came towards the end of the play. The young man being tried for murder had stabbed a man to death because he was being terrorized by him with a cat's-eye jewel, for which he had an overpowering repugnance. The gambler was seeking to influence the jury by mental suggestion. While the jury was deliberating he projected a piece of news intended to turn public opinion strongly against the accused. He believed that the jury could be reached, entirely. Heally, by this way of mass suggestion and would acquit it would. The jury acquitted the boy and the play ended.

Augustus Thomas might be interested in the facts in the Costello case. The jury deliberated less than two hours. When the news came that it was ready to render a verdict, it was a foregone conclusion that that verdict would be. What part might mass suggestion have played in that verdict?

For a month an enormous newspaper audience, virtually the entire population served by the press, has been concentrated on the Costello case with a tremendous intensity of interest. As a topic of conversation, whether among intimates or strangers, it eclipses every other item of news in the papers, even the Nazi code. There have been several occasions when I have found myself and others who believed Mrs. Costello would be found guilty. I have found very few who believed she was guilty.

That is to say, the great majority believed that she was innocent and would be acquitted. I am sure that Mrs. Costello was guilty—but would be acquitted. There was a great deal of evidence in the opinion that the State had not proved its case.

This Kenton gambler in "The Witching Hour" who may be taken as the mouthpiece of Augustus Thomas, the playwright, would say that it was this enormous pressure of unorganized public opinion which swayed the verdict. Not Guilty not merely because the law favored her, but because she might use the words of Martin Luther and Woodrow Wilson on different but equally famous occasions: "God helping them, the truth would triumph."

It is an interesting idea, and one of these days we may know something more about it. There are present at the forces really at work in matters of this kind. There are the electricians know about radio, the down to earth lawyer, the whole case makes one wonder if it will be fatal in the first place. Here is a long and expensive month of legal process, costing the taxpayers a great deal of money, keeping a woman shut up for months, and then, when the trial is over, the complete time and attention of the busy people for a few days. When it is all washed out it turns out to be a case of criminal evidence, no obscure, or unimportant, or anything certain, but the verdict was a foregone conclusion. One wonders why the State found it necessary to push the case to a conclusion.

A thousand years ago when the summoning of a jury of a man's peers and neighbors was a simple and inexpensive thing, it might have been well to leave no stone unturned to make sure that a guilty person could not escape. The result of most murder trials can be forecast in advance.

Yet one must admit that the whole trial does enormous credit to the criminal court system of Massachusetts. If the trial had been held in a court where convicted under more dignified, impartial and dignified auspices. The storm on both sides were conscientious, fair, considerate, and free from any passion, malice, and the slightest. The accused conducted himself with dignity and discretion.

The presiding judge was a solid fact criminal court judge. He never allowed the case to be swayed up in technicalities. There were no technicalities. Whoever has followed the trial closely just feel that all the truth has been brought out. The fact that human power can elicit was sought forth. The vital truth, from to only two persons, the acquitted woman and the dead man, no human power could have brought it out. The whole trial seems to me a triumphant approval of the soundness of the way we do things in Massachusetts. Nearly every one will be satisfied that everything has been done that was humanly possible. The demands of justice have been satisfied.

Send in your photograph right now. There are thousands of entrants. The judges will choose the most typical New England boy and girl. With in the next two weeks—some lucky boy and girl will start to Chicago with the parents of each. And in addition to having all expenses paid, each will have $200 spending money with which to thoroughly enjoy the trip and the Big Fair. It is the opportunity of a lifetime. Time is all that counts. Before you realize it the competition will have been concluded and there is no further chance to be an award. Get busy. Did you ever hear of such a contest? No effort whatever beyond the mere mailing of your photograph to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago. And then there are 12 cash prizes of $100 each.

And your entry stands just as much chance now as at any time. It is already in the hands of the judges. Remember, the contest is open to any boy or girl between the ages of six and 12 living in Massachusetts, Maine or Rhode Island. According to the rules they become the property of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Evening Globe. Please remember to send in your photograph to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago. And then there are 12 cash prizes of $100 each.

STATE POLICE TO NO DRIVE

Several days ago Dist. Atty. Bishop started his drive against slot machines in Middlesex county and asked officials to look over the city and town to cooperate. It was learned that the majority of cities and towns in the county had replied to his letter and state they would take the necessary steps to remove the machines.

However, several cities have not yet been heard from and there are still operating in a part of the county. Information of this brought to Bishop last night led to his announcement that state police would be called in to aid in the situation.

Vagrant Is Held Despite Story

Joseph Runn, 14, was being held by Framingham police today while they checked with Cleveland officials on his story that he was stealing today. A narrow escape from death in the cave-in of a trench near the Arlington Heights railroad station. Smigalski was killed under the wreckage and fellow workmen went to his rescue.

Revolver at Side. Mrs. Brett, the former Alice J. Brett, who was a professional singer, remained at the home of her husband in Brookline, Mass. Mrs. Brett was found dead in his bathroom in an evidence of suicide. He was 45. She was 35. They had been living at 47 White st., North Cambridge.

There was no reason why my husband should have killed himself. He had everything to live for. He was not in debt, nor had he suffered any financial reverses," was Mrs. Brett's answer when asked why she believed her husband had committed suicide. She revealed that the gun found in the apartment was the property of her husband, a though he had never been in the habit of using it. Doherty Presides Over

State Comdr. James P. Rose, of the American Legion, will lie in bed at his Chilton pl. Jamaica Plain, home today while the annual convention of the state department of that organization gets underway at the Holyoke Theater, Holyoke.

The convention will be presided over by Vice-Comdr. Daniel J. Doherty, suspended candidate for commander of the department, as long as Comdr. Rose will be unable to attend.

The committee at its meeting last night also voted to accept the apology of Walter "Hap" Meyer for a broadcast concerning the trouble between the state department and the Crows-Palmon post. Suspension of the latter post's charter, resulting from the trouble, comes to an end at the close of the convention this week.

Last night many of the legionnaires who had already arrived in Holyoke for the convention attended the block dance which was held in Suffolk at. The entire area was roped off for the occasion and many of the public at the city attended the celebration. The Mardi Gras festival was also opened at Mountains Park.

The convention today will be called to order by Vice-Comdr. Doherty, after a band concert. A suspended candidate for commander. Registration will be continued all day today despite the fact that 70 delegates had already registered. In addition to the business sessions, which will be held at the Holyoke Theater, the various bureaus of the department will have a day of the old telephone building at Maple and Suffolk sts.

Manuscript material is due to pay and pay again next year, according to indications of the new compulsory auto insurance rates for 1934. Boston is practically assured of a move for increase over the 1933 rates, which were $38 for low powered cars; $45 for the medium class and $45 for the high-powered vehicles.

Officials of the State Department of Insurance declined to discuss the new schedule that is to be submitted to the public next month. One, however, inferred that the two high priced communities, where the rates will not suffer any further increase. Motorists in the outlying districts find little difference between the 1933 and 1934 rates, it was learned.

LEAF RISE WITH RAINS OF POINTS

New York, Aug. 17.—Leaf shares on the New York Stock Exchange today recorded gains of 20 points, and in the final hour held close to the best prices of the session.

Rallies in grains and cotton stimulated bullish sentiment. The rallying brought out the fact that stock offerings are scarce when buying orders are in. For about 20 minutes the buying was reminiscent of hectic trading days of a few weeks ago, but then assumed a more moderate pace.

Although leading brokerage houses continued to urge caution in the matter of overcommitment, sentiment was much more optimistic than in the early part of the week. The consensus apparently was that, while there might be further price readjustments and market irregularities, a latent demand for equities could be expected to prevent any sharp slump in quotations.

In the first hour the main body of stocks moved irregularly higher. Liquor shares were firm with National Distillers, Schenley, American Commercial Alcohol and other distillers being taken above their previous close.

Leaves up a point or better included Westinghouse Electric, Union Pacific, Southern Railway, First National Bank, Alaska Pipeline, National Distillers, and others. Shares up 2 or more included Rayon, General Electric, International Harvester, Ward, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, and others.

A sharp rally in wheat after a few days of decline was especially with cotton also registered advances.

Sales to 31 a. m. approximated $100,000. In the second hour trading was at a snail's pace with volume tapering off to the smallest total in weeks.

Steel was pushed up more than 3 points before profit-taking started. Industrial Rayon at the same time was up 2 points. Gains of 2 or better were held by Allied Chemical and Westinghouse Electric. Case closed under a half dozen points, with rumors of Soviet revolution again abroad. Many thought this would be especially helpful to raising interest rates.

Gains of 2 points or more showed for American Wool, American Cyanamid, Commercial Union, and others. Products, Delaware & Hudson, and others. Industrial Alcohol, and others. Northern Pacific and John Hancock. Sales to 3 p. m. approximated $100,000.

In the fourth hour the market rallied in its trade. American Telephone was up a couple of points. R. R. and American Gas were up nearly 2 points. General Electric sold about a point higher. Standard Brands was up 2 points.

KNOWLES DUO CHOICE IN ESSEX COUNTY 4-BALL GOLF

WEATHER AND SON
PLAY BISCOE,
KING TODAY

By BILL GRIMES

Manchester, Aug. 17.—Unusual interest centered around even of the third-round matches of the annual Essex County Club four-ball golf tournament today. The two teams of the day were the Knowles duo and the Biscoe team.

KNOWLES FAVORED

Essex, a former 2nd U. S. Open champion and the father of P. K. Biscoe, put out Dr. E. W. Knowles and C. C. Moller, Boston, as a team. It seemed doubtful if they would have enough hands to stop the Knowles pair.

Bob Knowles, however, had one stroke and yielded two to his father, the senior Knowles, who had four strokes from the hole, while the junior Knowles had three from the hole.

Harry P. Hood and his son played in the C. C. Moller team. Hood and his son played in the C. C. Moller team. Hood and his son played in the C. C. Moller team.

MOLLER IN TIGHT RACE

Another father and son team, Francis Smith and son Bobby, who played much better in the first round, played in the second round. Bobby Smith, who played in the first round, played in the second round.

Navy Plebes Start Grid Practice

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Thud of leather against leather was heard here today as the first practice of the new plebes of the Naval Academy.

Bouts Last Night

Chicago—Karl Gerns, 161, Chicago, defeated Billy Gerns, 162, Chicago, 10-11.

Chicago—Al Thompson, 162, Chicago, defeated Billy Gerns, 162, Chicago, 10-11.

M. J. Walker (1) and Dr. E. W. Knowles (2) vs. J. P. Fother (3) and W. J. Biscoe (4) 10-11.

Big Ed Walsh, Now Golf Pro, Hangs Up Glove for Good

Morden, C. Aug. 17 (U.S.P.)—The Ed Walsh used to when he was old feller who carries a lance as Charles Comiskey's pride and joy pro here at the municipal golf course down 1/2 mile on money.

The Ed will tell you. He was in his little golf pro shop up here now and philosophizes on baseball, golf and life, watches to see how young men are getting on in the game.

WHITIN STARS IN SWIM MEET

After the more noted of the two, will share with Gordon Connolly of the B. S. A. the honors of being the outstanding contestants of the day.

FRAZIER O'LEARY

Homebound today, the yachts of the New York Yacht Club fleet bade Maribeth a hasty farewell this morning and set sail for the Cape Cod Canal, nearly 50 miles to the southward.

SHIELDS SUBDUES FRANKIE PARKER IN QUARTER-FINALS

FRANKIE PARKER'S TRIMS
NEWPORT

Newport, R. I., Aug. 17 (AP)—Frank X. Shields of New York, today ended player in Newport Casino Tennis Tourney, today qualified for the semi final round by routing, from behind, regular 6-2, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3 victory over Frankie Parker, the sensational 17-year-old Milwaukee youth, in the most polished match played here this week.

The rangy Shields who had broken even in their two previous clashes this season, played a spectacular game against the younger player who had won his only match by a 6-2, 6-4, 6-3 victory over Parker, the sensational 17-year-old Milwaukee youth, in the most polished match played here this week.

Both ended the match with 111 points, but Shields had 11 scored points, 26 placements and five service aces against Parker's 22 placements, 10 service aces and 11 points.

The younger appeared to have the match well under control in the third game when he broke Shields' service to take a 2-1 lead. But he was unable to match the sport that Shields showed in the second.

Shields' pitching was a big factor in the Rosinoleade success. After losing his first start he came back to sweep the next three games and the championship.

The first Boston right-hander was aided by two teammates in particular, George Colbert and Dan Sullivan. The Rosinoleade scored two runs in the second. The two-run was scored until the last of the first when Colbert hit a double and Sullivan hit a score.

The seventh inning provided the long and winning score. Colbert hit, Corolla sacrificed him along with Danny Sullivan with a clean blow scored Colbert.

Fullerton then hit a single which was scored until the last of the first when Colbert hit a double and Sullivan hit a score.

FLYING TACKLE CLICKS

Football training of the Boston College days stood Colbert, Rosinoleade catcher, in good stead as his perfect flying tackle of the third sack shows. Colbert was

Greens Thump McLaughlins

By JOE CASHMAN
The great Joe Cashman that threatened to tear this fair city asunder has been satisfactorily settled, and the boys from City Hall can go back to work in peace. By Green's Crushers, edged Chick McLaughlin's Masters, 8-7, at Braves Field, in an affair of honor.

McLaughlin, the former Harvard pitcher, was shocked off his mound for a starter, while ex-Senator Mike Ward was grace and dignity in the mound for the Green's.

The Masters presented Senator Joe Mulhern, Mike Sullivan, Joe

Ward, Chick Paul and Eddie Markell.
Umpire White said after the home.

The Green's had in the lineup the following awe-inspiring array: Jack Leonard, City Councilman A. F. Lee, Les Powers, Willy Miller, Dr. George Fagan, George Murphy and Feather Edwards.

ROSLINOLEADE WINS SERIES

Fullerton, veteran pitcher, kept 12 hits scattered and won his own half game with his seventh inning single to give Rosinoleade the deciding game, 3-2, in the Boston Park league series with the Rosinoleade at Fallon field. The win gave Rosinoleade the series by a 3-2 count.

Shall Harriman Bank Failure Be "Arbitrated" or N. Y. Clearing House Keep Its Pledges?

IT IS rumored that the majority of the member banks of the New York Clearing House Association are in favor of standing up to the implied obligation of the Clearing House Association to support its member banks.

The opposition is centered in a small minority of the Association's membership. From this variance of attitude within the Association has arisen the proposal of an arbitration to iron out "the conflict."

But at the very threshold there rises up the question—ARBITRATE WHAT?

There is the typical advertisement which was inserted by the Clearing House Association in the public prints.

The public was therein told of the "weekly reports" required of Clearing House members and the "periodical examinations" made by the Association; of the intimate knowledge possessed by the Association of the affairs of the New York banks, and how membership in the Association affords a protection which is something beyond and in addition to the safeguards provided by Federal and State supervision.

THE people have been taught to believe that they may draw deep, full draughts of confidence from these assurances; that here is a protection they may regard not only as a fact, but which may sense it, feel it, accept it as a great reality—and the precise safeguards from which this protection springs, have been explained to them.

Is there any subject matter here for arbitration? Perhaps the arbitrators have been appointed to see if they can discover any.

These arbitrators are three in number—one appointed by the banks, who will presumably speak for the recalcitrant minority of the Clearing House Association, the other appointed by the Comptroller of the Currency, and a third selected by the two first named.

In the agreement of arbitration it is not denied apparently that the Clearing House committee intervened in the affairs of the Harriman Bank on July 12th, 1932, and agreed to aid the latter in any amount which might be necessary to put it in liquid and solid condition.

Realizing the responsibilities involved in the care of these funds, the Clearing House members have voluntarily imposed upon themselves rigid standards of practice for the protection of their own interests and the interests of their depositors.

The Association requires weekly reports from the members and makes periodical examinations of the condition of each bank. These examinations give particular attention to the soundness of the assets of each member, and are made in the light of intimate knowledge of the affairs of the New York banks and of general conditions.

If you are a depositor of a Clearing House bank you can feel that, in addition to the safeguards provided through Federal and State supervision, your funds have the protection afforded by membership in an organization whose fundamental purpose is to assure sound banking.

NOR is it denied that the Clearing House committee demanded that Joseph W. Harriman should resign as president of the Harriman Bank and that Henry E. Cooper, representing the Clearing House, should be elected in his place and stead.

Nor that the Clearing House committee insisted upon an amendment of the by-laws of the Harriman Bank, giving the new president power to hire and discharge any officer or employee for any reason whatever.

Nor is it denied that the Association's representative, as president of the Harriman Bank, relying upon the pledge of the Association when it took charge of the Harriman Bank, assured inquiring depositors that their deposits in the bank were safe.

tion" afforded them by banking memberships in an organization "whose fundamental purpose is to assure sound banking." The Harriman National Bank & Trust Company is listed among the names of members.

Nor is it denied that the chairman of the Clearing House committee advised the Comptroller of the Currency that he need have no fear that the depositors would not be paid in full, nor that the Comptroller of the Currency, believing the spokesmen of the Clearing House, refrained from closing the bank.

What is there in all this to arbitrate?

NOW we learn from the press that the Clearing House Association denies that its committee had any power or authority to obligate the member banks of the Clearing House, or any of them, and that neither the boards of directors nor the executives of the banks had any knowledge of an attempt to obligate them until after the Harriman Bank closed, and that any such obligation on the part of the banks, if entered into, was void for defect of law.

Well, here we have it—reputation—self-reputation—in the grand manner! It could hardly be more sweeping!

Not only is it a repudiation of the private representations of the Clearing House made by its committee chairman and counsel to the United States Government, in the person of the Comptroller of the Currency, but it is a repudiation of the public representations contained in conspicuous and striking advertisements inserted by the Association in the daily press.

It is a ramifying and far-reaching repudiation!

It is a repudiation of the Association's constitution which, in Article VI, Section III, provides that the Association shall act through a president, a secretary, a Clearing House committee and four secondary committees, called respectively a conference committee, committee on admissions, a nominating committee and an arbitration committee.

THE important and broadly representative committee is the Clearing House committee which the constitution declares "shall have charge of the business affairs of the Clearing House." It has the power "to prescribe rules and regulations to be observed by the Clearing House with respect to ALL MATTERS NOT PROVIDED FOR IN THE CONSTITUTION" and to prescribe "rules and regulations deemed by it advisable for the MAINTENANCE OF CONSERVATIVE BANKING." It can act through its duly constituted sub-committees as in the case of the Harriman Bank.

Even the member banks—those forming the minority which has involved the Clearing House Association in this unlovely mess—are acting in repudiation of their own boards of directors, which were obliged, as a condition of membership, to formally adopt the constitution of the Clearing House Association with its basic authorizations to the Association's officers and committees to bind the member banks by their action.

Reputation as a program could hardly be more callous or more thorough or more injurious to the banking business in New York and throughout the country!

Human Side of the News

"The Ten Million Dollar Book Shelf"—He Searched 15 Years for One Book

By Edwin C. Hill

Rambling through the news, one comes upon many signs of collectors—men and women whose minds are turned toward the acquisition of objects beautiful or rare or in some way unique. It seems to be in the human mind a constant urge to collect. Small boys have it. Some folk collect postage stamps, like King George of England. Some collect paintings. But the special passion of the late Benjamin Altman, was the collecting of books. He was the collector of rare books and manuscripts.

He is the possessor of what is often called "The Ten Million Dollar Bookshelf," and he has just added to it a first folio of Shakespeare. It comes from the library of Lord Rosebery in England, and it cost Dr. Rosenbach $50,000 to transfer the entire folio of the works of the Bard of Avon to the Rosenbach treasure house in New York.

Dr. Rosenbach, 75 now, a heavy-set, spectacled, alert and amiable gentleman, who has brought to the fascinating sport of collecting rare books, has acquired all those qualities of imagination, intuition and vision which mark the genius of commerce and industry.

He was born in a small town, coming of an old Philadelphia family which was engaged in the book business. In a period of ten years alone he spent more than $2,000,000 on the treasures he coveted. A man of education and culture, yet with a shrewd knack for business, he combined the interest and profits of both buying and selling, with his passion for collecting. Visitors to his library, which he has made available to the public, are astonished to hear that most of his contents are not for sale.

It is difficult to appreciate the yardstick in a piece of faded paper upon which Dr. Rosenbach has penned the "Christmas Carol" or upon

Broadcasting

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—I tagged along to a radio broadcasting station with Irvin Cobb recently. An old hand on the lecture platform, he was as casual about his appearance before the microphone as a gentleman dropping in at the corner for a cigar.

While I had nothing to do with the program, a sudden realization I was within earshot of millions of homes gave me a jittery jingle. I had a feeling that any moment would disrupt things with a sudden fit of sneezing or let go an ankle-deep hiccup. After a while one becomes adjusted.

Then the tip-toe air, the atmosphere of nodding and whispering begins to have curious effect. The restraint of the microphone, long to make little toasts and tipples that precede melody, balloons the tension. One tries to occupy thoughts by looking around, but the silence nags.

In most people there resides a seriousness like devil becoming of an Arch-episcopate at evening until at sudden signals they detach themselves like Whitman's eccentric idiom, from the shadows, hop to microphone in panty havard to ratle off their plugs. No jump from gravity to gaiety is so nimble.

In appearance and likely in ex-er, is Ben Altman, the painter, of an New York's electric, published on sports printed in 1886. Time after time he was but on the train only to lose the ticket. He had about given up when a man came, with a book wrapped up in paper, which Dr. Rosenbach said, "It was the missing book, for the book for fifteen years."

willing lady. She would accept nothing, however, but flowers. Each morning his phone at the Savoy would ring and a brisk voice would say: "The lady is waiting, Mr. Eringer, and would enumerate his offerings. So, the day, Haggin would order extravagantly, mostly orchids. After six weeks he pressed her to come to Lake Como. Finally she agreed to his invitation. Everybody knew Eringer caught the Olympic hero next morning.

Boydhood Memory

It used to be fun in the good old days to rise at the dawn of day and dig for worms for a fishing trip. It used to be fun, I say. For I'll swear that a robin who hovered near knew just what we were up to.

Since he flew to the ground when the earth was turned and he dug to toss one out. Yes, it used to be fun to go fishing then, but time has rewritten his terms.

Of what pleasure it, and I never get up to dig for a can of worms. We'd sit on a dock and we'd swing our legs all day in the blaring sun.

And a few small fish on a piece of string was our ultimate dream of fun. Then digging for worms was an easy task, but I tried it a year ago.

And the earth seemed hard as a city street where the streams of traffic flow.

And I'd lost the knack of clutching a thing that wriggles and twists and squirms.

So I said to myself: "You will never again go digging at dawn for worms."

I stuck to the task till my hands grew sore, I labored and toiled and wrought.

But the worms were scarce and no robins came, and it wasn't the fun I thought.

And a small boy said as we walked away: "I'm wondering, Uncle Ed, when there's so much pleasure in getting up, how can old folks stay in bed?"

I could only answer him this: "My lad, all experience confirms the dreadful fact that there comes a time when it's labor to dig for worms."

New York Day by Day

A. L. Eringer and Flo Ziegfeld are gone, and a story everyone along the Rialto knew, save Eringer, may be told. Eringer was Ziegfeld's chief lier in the production of The Follies. He made but one request of the lier: he angled this expensive show. He was personally to release it the night before the premiere. He always made changes which were heavily noted. But never lier, after this single performance at the Rialto, he was merely a concession to his investment. Everybody knew Eringer would not attend again.

Thingsumobbi: The Governor Mues have returned to Los Angeles after a long stay in Tahiti. The Russell Pattersons have been doing Hawaii. Robert Louis Stevenson was bothered with a buzzing in one ear all his life. Caruso had one day a week he was at home to visitors. It was his day for garlic. Billy and Madeline Gaxton included the cure at Vichy in their quest. Katharine Cornell would rather hold her premieres in Buffalo, her home town, than anywhere. Belle Lavinia, tired of it all, after her Easthampton night club this summer, plans to return to Paris permanently. Owen Madden takes his daily walk on upper Fifth avenue instead of Broadway.

Breakfasting alone at Grand Central—deport it the m. for fun—and functioning in obstructions, a lady across table suddenly squealed: "Would you mind passing me a paper and salt, if I'm not too inquisitive?" And her fluster so flustered me I passed her the mustard and dropped a fork.

And I wish Major Raymond Dickson would quit writing this letter address on letters to me: "O. O. McIntyre, Jr., Home for Abandoned Children, 100 N. Y. People around the building are he thinking to look the other way and not passing me a paper and salt."

Monroe Doctrine Still

Vital U. S. Policy

By James T. Williams, Jr.

With the passing of this immediate threat.

But this view is not supported by the language of the declaration, which is to action "By any European Power" (as to colonization and intervention), is submitted in time; nor by that part of the declaration which specifically mentions the allied powers, for here the declaration is couched in such general terms as to be, with sound reason, applied to any power or powers whatsoever who should at any time, commit the aggression against which the announced policy was aimed.

Mr. Pittman's objection to the doctrine upon the ground that it is "a source of annoyance in many parts of Central and South America," indicates that he labors under the hallucination that it involves the relationship of the United States and other American republics.

COULD HAVE BEEN LEARNED. On the contrary as Mr. Pittman himself has learned from reading "C. Clark's memorandum."

The doctrine does not concern itself with "purely inter-American relations," but with the relationship, between the United States and other American republics.

From Mr. Pittman's statement it would appear that he is ignorant of the origin of the Monroe doctrine, or is indifferent to its enduring value.

He contention that the doctrine was a threat by the holy alliance in 1823 is a mistake which he might have saved himself, by not passing me a paper and salt, and not passing me a paper and salt.

Interpretation of the doctrine recently published by the American government in the form of a memorandum by the Hon. J. R. Rosten Clark.

It has been commonly contended that the doctrine was announced merely to mark the "disagreement of the European alliance in 1823, and that the doctrine became obsolete
